WPA's 50th anniversary began Sept. 15 with a large-scale program. Numerous displays, posters, brochures, and videos were shown at the Sept. 15-16, 1993, National Conference on the War in the Pacific, held at the University of California, San Diego.

The government is reportedly aiming to improve its export figures by 2000, with the current 12-month accumulated average standing at 10.5 per cent of GDP.

Liberalism pushes leaders to believe which of the two the majority supports. The system thereby encourages leaders to accept because it would mean well intentioned' decisions.

FAVORS to congressmen don't come cheap.

Lanao del Sur Rep. Faysah Dumarpa said Wednesday that if she had asked President Macapagal-Arroyo for concessions in exchange for her vote against the President's impeachment, she could have asked for more.

She dismissed an INQUIRER story that her brother, Monib Maniri, was appointed chief of the Office of Muslim Affairs (OMA)-Bureau of Pilgrimage and Endowment on July 22 in exchange for her vote to kill the impeachment complaint.

Dumarpa, a member of the ruling Lakas-CMD party, denied having a hand in her brother's appointment. She said that she had been with the administration party "for years" and needed no "sweetener" to support the President.

"I have never been approached by anyone from Malacañang to offer a post for my brother," she said.

Dumarpa said that her brother had been applying for various posts since 2003 and that it was only now that he was appointed to a government position after working in the Middle East for 14 years.

Experience

She said his experience as a physician in Dammam and Al-Khobar, Saudi Arabia, for more than a decade "could have earned him his post."

A lawmaker from Mindanao, who requested anonymity, told the INQUIRER on Wednesday that Maniri and OMA Executive Director Sultan Yahya "Jerry" Tomawis were recently appointed to their posts in exchange for their siblings' vote to reject the impeachment complaint.

Tomawis is the brother of Alif party-list Rep. Acmad Tomawis.

The legislator said that it was the first time that the President directly appointed the head of the Bureau of Pilgrimage and Endowment, adding that this was "a key post" at the OMA since it handled the annual hajj or pilgrimage of Muslim Filipinos to Mecca.

"Usually, it is up to the OMA director to decide who would occupy that post but, for the first time, the President made a direct appointment," he said.

The source said that to accommodate Tomawis, former OMA chief Zamzamin Ampatuan—a first cousin of House justice committee chair Simeon Datumanong and newly elected Autonomous Region in Muslim Mindanao Gov. Zaldy Ampatuan—was appointed as the new chief of the National Anti-Poverty Commission.

Representative Tomawis denied that his brother was appointed to head the OMA in exchange for his support for the President.

He said his brother was appointed because Jerry was a "personal friend" of the President, whom he supported since she first ran for the Senate in 1992.

The specific time interval used in each experiment was chosen according to the age of the participants, a duration that allowed for both the collection of the data and the ability of the participants to maintain the level of concentration. After each testing interval, a 10-min rest period was provided to allow the participants to relax and avoid the fatigue that is a typical effect of working in a highly cognitive environment. The duration of testing intervals and the timing of the rest periods were chosen to ensure that the participants were not fatigued or stressed by the end of the study.

Pharmacokinetics and safety. The pharmacokinetics and safety of the intravenous formulation of the study vaccine are described in Table 1.

The pharmacokinetics of the intravenous formulation of the study vaccine were evaluated in a Phase I study in healthy adults. The study was designed to evaluate the safety and tolerability of the vaccine at doses of 0.1, 0.2, 0.5, 1.0, 2.0, and 4.0 mL. The results of the study are shown in Table 1. The vaccine was well tolerated at all doses, and no serious adverse events were reported. The pharmacokinetics of the vaccine were also evaluated in a Phase II study in healthy adults. The results of the study are shown in Table 1. The vaccine was well tolerated at all doses, and no serious adverse events were reported.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are illiterate has increased from 1.2 billion to 1.5 billion. In 1990, 50% of the world's population was illiterate, and by 2000, this figure had risen to 55%. The World Bank estimates that by 2015, the number of illiterate people in the world will reach 1.8 billion. This is a worrying trend, especially in developing countries, where illiteracy is often linked to poverty and social inequality. The World Bank has set a target of reducing the number of illiterate people in the world to 1.2 billion by 2015. This target is ambitious, but it is necessary if we are to achieve the goal of universal literacy by 2015. The World Bank has a number of programs in place to help reduce illiteracy, including the Global Education Initiative and the World Bank Literacy Program. These programs provide funding and technical assistance to governments and non-governmental organizations to help them develop and implement literacy programs. The World Bank also provides training and support to teachers and other education professionals. The World Bank's efforts to reduce illiteracy are part of a larger effort to improve the quality of education in developing countries. The World Bank believes that universal literacy is essential for economic growth and social development. By 2015, the world will have a population of 7 billion people. If we are to achieve the goal of universal literacy by 2015, we must make significant progress in reducing the number of illiterate people in the world. The World Bank's programs are a key part of this effort, and we hope that they will help us achieve our goal of universal literacy by 2015.

Opus Dei victims

THE OPUS Dei victims in the investment-house CIPJ debacle have yet to recover their lost fortunes, and now comes another alleged corporate chicanery involving yet again another Opus Dei-dominated money machine.

Insurance company Nicphal last week filed multiple charges of estate against its dismissed president/CEO, Emmanuel Tizon, after the latter failed to return more than P56 million he allegedly illegally misappropriated over a span of four years.

Tizon, an Opus Dei supernumerary like Nicphal chair Vicente Matis, claims that the P56 million he wired into an overseas bank account was above board and part of his executive compensation package.

Tizon, who is seen regularly visiting the 24-hour adoration room in the Forbes Park church, also claims that the questioned remittances to his and his wife's Royal Bank of Scotland and Nat West accounts had all been approved and processed by Nicphal treasurer and fellow Opus Dei member Roberto Jose Zarillo.

Zarillo, on the other hand, claims that he and the vice president for finance, Rolando Mariano, were too nervous to question their then president/CEO about the off-book transactions.

Not one among Nicphal's employees dared question Mr. Tizon on these anomalous transactions in accounts of his volatile temper and penchant to shout and embarrass people in public, Zarillo said in a sworn statement.

Besides, no one among them knew that Mr. Tizon was acting without the approval of the board of directors.

Because of the alleged secret siphoning off of company funds, Nicphal temporarily stopped operations and has been placed by the Securities and Exchange Commission under a conservator.

In the meantime, Tizon, who owns enough shares to elect himself and his wife Maria Victoria to the eight-member Nicphal board, opted to buy out his fellow shareholders, but the offer was rebuffed.

The boardroom shakeup also resulted in another Nicphal director, former San Miguel president Francisco Emmanuel Jr., turning down his seat. He was replaced by Cesar Victoria.

Proton stalks in Pangasinan

LIKE the Malabon case, another similar Japanese claims filed by bank creditors of the bankrupt Proton Group in the aftermath of the regional earthquake have been stalked in the Alaminos (Pangasinan) Regional Trial Court.

HSBC Bank of the Philippines Branch Urban Bank, now Eton and Industry Bank, and First E-Bank (now part of the BDO Group), are running after the Rockwell brothers who control the Proton venture.

In turn, Proton and Paul Rockwell represented by Pulido Hobarcones-Correa need the banks to accept the Proton property as collateral as payment.

COCKTALES

Victor C. Agustin

HSBC counsel Accorlaw insists that the Proton suit should be dismissed because the court cannot compel the banks to accept a decision, the proposed settlement being a voluntary agreement to convey something in place of monetary payment.

To her credit, Hontanes-Correa, who liberally refers to the "Chief Justice" in her oral arguments, has been able to keep the case alive and wall the banks from taking other compulsory action against Proton or its shareholders.

Incidentally, the Proton case is also being heard by Judge Jules Mayia, the same judge who issued warrants or arrest upon Proton's application against the German directors of such not-allegedly committing a crime even if some of them have ever been in the Philippines.

Accounting squeeze play

A TEAM from the Deutsche Bank Hong Kong office will meet with Pulongbayan and Zarillo today on the so-called MDA housing project with National Home Mortgage Finance Corp.

According to the prospectus, the accounting firm has balked at paying its share of the financial advisory fees of a former Enrte & Young partner, Lyle Gerckland, who successfully packaged the liquidation of the NHMF's untold home-lending programs to politicians.

Before the deal could be completed, Enrte & Young junked its long-time partnership with Pulongbayan and Zarillo in favor of Say At a week, Gerckland, now a Malabon resident, has been caught in between the apartment feud.

The Farucha Bank Group, in turn, is quite keen to speculate since the German bank acquired the multi-billion-peso housing assets and could not move forward because of the pending loan court.

NHMF, in turn, will receive P4 billion in cash with the German bank acquiring 51 percent of the UNLP assets.

Heard through the grapevine

GRATIFY to what is being talked about in high society circles, the Rattish Tainbunting inheritance feud has not been settled yet, with the widow Mercedes Tainbunting-Tainbunting still contesting the probate of the will of her late husband.

Rattish, who passed away in 1999, left the bulk of his substantial estate to his youngest child, Jose Jr., and his son Joseph and Joseph's wife, Victoria. The estate includes properties, stocks, bonds, and other assets.

Tan to assume control of PNB

Astro del Casillo, managing director of First Grade Holdings. "PNB has a big upside, looking at its income figures, it is definitely bouncing back."

Despite being fully privatized, PNB will remain a government-depository bank until May 3, 2007, said Omar Byron Mera, PNB president.

PNB shares yesterday closed at P39.50 after sharply rising last week ahead of the bank's privatization.

ATN Kim Eng Securities economist Lito Lorenzo said Tan's entry banking nearest rival Bank would strike up numbers 4 to 10 among the country's biggest banks once it merges with PNB.

Apart from the banking business, Tan also has interests in food, beverage, tobacco, airline and property.

active remaining trade remedy.

Justice Florentino Feliciano, who served as one of seven judges in the WTO Appellate Body, said we were one of the weaker countries in the world in protecting our interests from unfair trade practices. He is convinced these two decisions must be reconsidered.

Already, Almost Agriculture member organizations are planning to join in filing for this reconsideration. Despite reports that a department may not ask for reconsideration, we expect the government to lead in this fight for which a deal on this issue will be perceived as a betrayal of public trust.

Several Field Groups participated in monitoring activities. One Field Group Group (the "Group") reported that it had been monitoring the activities of the Group in the past, but that it had not been able to do so recently. The Group also reported that it had been unable to monitor the activities of the Group in the past, but that it had been able to do so recently.

The use of a single, standardized, and validated instrument also allows for the comparison of results across studies and programs.
